Last month we shared details of new certification opportunities thanks to the MiLEAP grant awarded to Michigan Works! Northeast Consortium and ACC.

The manufacturing course is an introductory class that is intended to provide training, evaluation and skills necessary for an entry level position in manufacturing. Following a self-paced online portion, students must complete an in-person lab component. To participate in the lab component, the online portion must be completed by March 11, 2022. The mandatory in-person lab component will be held March 14-18, 2022 during ACC’s Spring Break.

Looking for information technology certification? This 5-day course is intended to provide training, evaluation and skills necessary for an entry level position in information technology. After satisfactory completion of the course and exam, students will qualify to sit for the CompTIA A+ Certification Exams. Topics and domains featured in the exam include hardware, networking, troubleshooting, mobile devices, security, and more. In-person training will be held March 14-18, 2022 during ACC’s Spring Break.
